Lipscomb University is proud of what you have accomplished as a scout, and we are proud to recognize you for it. We believe that students who have succeeded as scouts have demonstrated a strong ability to lead, a genuine commitment to their communities and a level of personal integrity that sets the standard for their peers. These qualities are the same that we look for and expect in our students.

Like scouting, leadership in service to others is ingrained in Lipscomb's identity. Our service learning curriculum is nationally recognized and in 2010 we set a strong example by being ranked third in the nation in terms of number of student service hours. Student leaders are what makes our great achievements possible. We want leaders like you at Lipscomb, and that's why we created the Scout Award, effective beginning in 2012.
